Sandra Wagner

Yoga teacher // Mentor for self-determined yogis (sandrawagneryoga.de)

"The journey with and through the practice of yoga has led me to incredible discoveries. Today I recognize more and more how I thrive with life's challenges and adventures rather than resisting them."

Being deeply rooted in her own nature and being able to see her surroundings as a source of inspiration is one of the most valuable gifts Sandra's yoga practice gives her.

She teaches an alignment-based, modern form of Hatha Yoga. Optimal alignment not only changes our physical perception, our mental and emotional attitude is influenced as well. We learn to understand ourselves better, develop compassion and empathy for ourselves and for others.

Freedom, stability & mobility are 3 attributes that can be found in her lessons. Sandra's goal is to create a place where every adventure seeker feels safe on their own journey - regardless of their previous knowledge of yoga.

Nadine Speer

Body-Mind-Coach // Yoga teacher (latravelista.de)

Both in yoga and in coaching, we take with us the same values that you might ascribe to a trip to a new country: curiosity, inspiration, authenticity and a lot of joy in life.

"For me, yoga means the ability for change and mindfulness in each of us - the more we look within ourselves and know our bodies, the more we can face our lives in the here and now."

Nadine's first priority is to meet everyone openly and without prejudice and to meet them where they are in life. To support you in starting the journey towards yourself while keeping the joy of the moment.

Her motivation: She knows that everyone has great power within them, which is sometimes just waiting to be used in order to live the life that each one imagines.
